

telephone companies' wires even though the cable operator was affiliated with the telephone company in violation of the rules by virtue of their joint interest in the contractor that was to build the cable system. The court acknowledged that the project "presents a number of advantages that might justify a good cause waiver." However, it held that the Commission had "failed * * * to explain why any of these advantages require [the contractor's] participation as [the telephone companies'] contractor." In this case, in contrast, in light of the decisions holding Section 613(b) unconstitutional, it is necessary to waive Section 613(b) to allow affiliates of telephone companies to provide video programming in order to render the statute constitutional. The Ninth Circuit recognized that a waiver might be warranted in these circumstances in GTE California, Inc. v. FCC, 39 F.3d 940 (1994), a case that (unlike NCTA v. FCC) involved a constitutional challenge to Section 613(b). The Ninth Circuit stated in that case, in response to the argument that Section 613(b) is unconstitutional, that "GTECA did not present the constitutional issue to the Commission at a point in this proceeding where it could have tried to obviate the constitutional question by granting discretionary relief, such as a permanent waiver." As that statement recognizes, a waiver is warranted to implement what the Ninth Circuit in US West termed our "more speech-friendly plan" and hence avoid a serious constitutional issue.

17. Conclusion. Accordingly, it is ordered that Section 613(b)(4) of the Communications Act is interpreted to authorize waivers permitting telephone companies to provide video programming directly to subscribers in their telephone service area pursuant to the rules we will adopt in this docket or related rulemaking proceedings.
